Meeting Protocol

Generally Robert's Rules of Order

Common mistakes...

- Needless motions – ie) motion to approve minutes, motion to accept reports where no action taken, motion to close nominations
- Failure of Chair to state motions or call for a negative vote
- Failure of member to state clearly & concisely what the motion is
- Failure of Chair to rule promptly, call motions out of order, and decide controversies
- Failure of Chair to control debate
- Failure of Chair to ask for a motion when action is needed
- Failure of Chair to use powers of general consent to expedite business

Power of the Chair...

- Require motions that are dilatory or obstructive to be in writing
- Suppress dilatory, obstructive or frivolous motions
 - Must allow one appeal. Requires two-thirds majority to overturn Chair.
- Declare members out of order who have not been recognized
- Require debate to be on proper subject only
- Require all remarks to be directed to the Chair
- Act promptly against any personal remarks
- Any member presenting a motion to reconsider must have voted on the prevailing side when the motion in question was passed
 - A member cannot move to reconsider if that member did not vote in favor of the original motion. Reconsideration requires two-thirds majority.
- A quorum is 9 members with at least 2 being elected officers

Statutes & By-Laws

Superseding Robert's Rules of Order...

- A quorum is 9 members with at least 2 being elected officers

- Nominating Committees are prohibited
- Motions to overrule Chair action or rescind an approved action require two-thirds majority
- Withdrawal of motion requires consent of member who seconded it
 - After the Chair has stated the motion, then requires Lodge's consent

Statutes & By-Laws (cont)

Superseding Robert's Rules of Order...

- Chair may require all motions to be submitted in writing
- All resolutions placed before the Lodge MUST be submitted in writing
- No member shall speak more than one time on Questions of Appeal, except by general consent (obtained by the Exalted Ruler)
- No member shall speak more than two times on any matter before the Lodge, except by general consent (obtained by Exalted Ruler)
- Power of the Chair to appoint all non-elected Officers and Committee Members cannot be abridged

Conduct of Members

The conduct of Members during a Lodge session must be in a dignified manner, with proper decorum at all times.

Under the law no Member may bring into a Lodge session any “extracurricular” devices, equipment, glasses of beverage, or anything that may in any way distract the Member’s own attention or the attention of others.

The Exalted Ruler, or the Esquire when so directed, shall require the Member possessing the item to remove it immediately, either by whispered private instruction or openly on the Lodge floor as circumstances dictate.

Conclusion

Observe GOOD PLANNING IN ADVANCE with good taste applied at all times.

There is no substitute for good advance planning.

Observe COMMON CURTESY at all times.
Treat others as you would like to be treated.
